Society of Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry

The regional chapters of the Society of Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry (SETAC) provide a forum for scientists and students in the broad fields of environmental toxicology and environmental chemistry to exchange information and offer assistance and support to students entering these professions.

This year the Ozark-Prairie Region's annual meeting will be held in St. Louis, Missouri at the Monsanto Company in Building R – Room 111.

The Plenary session is titled “Ecological and Human Assessment of Biotech Crops.”

A host of activities will include:

- poster and student platform presentations;
- an evening cookout and follow-up social at the area's most famous beer garden;
- a plenary session with student award presentations.

Lunch will be provided during the poster session.

Directions to lodging, the cookout and the meeting at Monsanto are posted on the OP-SETAC website at:

WWW.AUX.CERC.CR.USGS.GOV/OPSETAC/
